Athletes who use the Ballancer® Pro unanimously agree that it has helped them dramatically reduce recovery time, shorten rehabilitation time, and increase peak performance results. One of our regular clients had this to say...

“The Ballancer Pro has helped improve recovery time between workouts, enabling me to perform at a higher level sooner and more effectively. I walk into a session feeling sore, sluggish and leave feeling energized and less fatigued.”

~Dr. Sijye Karen Myrick

Runner, triathlete, second degree blackbelt kung fu karate and blackbelt aikijujitsu

We know that enhanced athlete performance is strongly correlated to the level and quality of recovery. The Ballancer® Pro is clinically proven to speed up muscle recovery and fully flush the lymphatic system. Additionally, it is FDA cleared for relieving muscular pain and aches and enhancing circulation.

Athletes and trainers have stated that a single 40-minute session in the Ballancer® Pro is equivalent to two days rest and recovery. The Ballancer® Pro, using the principles of manual lymphatic drainage massage, comprehensively flushes out swelling, eliminates toxins, lactic acid and metabolic waste created by a high level of exercise, physical activity, and exertion. This soothing massage action can highly improve circulation, breaks down adhesions and scar tissue while nourishing the tissue with freshly oxygenated blood, thereby reducing delayed onset muscle soreness and resting time required before the next physical activity or workout. Due to its relaxing effect on the nervous system, it can also prevent over-training which can lead to ... an athlete's worst nightmare... injury. In the unfortunate circumstances of an injury, the Ballancer® Pro is vital to the rehabilitation process. It can help to reduce healing time, eliminates inflammation and swelling as well as strain or pain related to trauma or injury.

How does it work?

The Ballancer® Pro is the most powerful and precisely calibrated compression therapy system designed for lymphatic massage and drainage. The lymphatic system functions as the “sewage system” in our body. Think of it as a lazy river that has no “pump” and relies solely upon muscular contraction, youth, exercise, healthy lifestyle, and rest. A healthy lymphatic system is vitally important for our immunity, inflammation, and healing. When lymph system is boosted to optimum performance by the Ballancer® Pro it can bring outstanding, almost miraculous wellness health and well-being results.

The Ballancer® Pro utilizes upper body and lower body garments with 24 chambers each, are sensor controlled, completely adjustable and is the ONLY device with a built-in pre-treatment mode to open lymphatic pathways. The lower body garment covers both legs, hips, glutes, abdominal and groin area where the main lymphatic system is located. While the jacket covers the shoulders, arms and back. Each of the 24 overlapping chambers, inflate sequentially and work to target every inch of the body. The wave-like massage motion increases blood flow, while removing lingering waste product. The treatment gently and thoroughly decongests areas of the body and helps release fluids and toxins while simultaneously enhancing mobility.

The soothing massage action increases circulation in areas to which the garment is applied and relieves muscle aches and pain caused by fatigue or over exertion. The bilateral treatment has a very relaxing effect on our nervous system especially the Parasympathetic Nervous System and the vagus nerve thereby relieving stress and inducing relaxation. With the Ballancer® Pro you get the fastest results as the fluid is not only squeezed out 360 degrees around the limb, but also pushed into the lymphatic vessels into the direction of the flow for optimal and fastest excretion.

Make the investment. Reduce recovery time. Prevent injury. Shorten rehabilitation time. Increase peak performance results. Book your Ballancer® Pro session today.

You're worth it!
